I am seeking an opportunity to gain practical Industry coding experience as a Full Stack Web Developer as I have completed my course and finalising my projects to successfully graduate.

Whilst my background details experience in the warehouse and logistics industry, 2020 and 2021 taught me that employment should be about satisfaction and fulfilment in any role. This realisation prompted me to undertake a complete career change away from warehousing and logistics I am currently studying a Full Stack Development Course through Academyxi, to help facilitate a transition to a new career goal as a Full Stack Developer.

This Full Stack Development Course covers all web development content of computer science applied to HTML, CSS, JavaScript, Ruby Rails, Git, SQL Lite, React, Object Orientation API interactions, Database modelling, Sinatra, MVC, SASS Ruby and Application deployment.

I believe on the successful conclusion of my studies will compliment my skills and abilities developed over my career and whilst my experience is vast, there are several key competencies that are transferable:

- Ability to problem solve – identify the problem & initiate actions to remediate.
- Communication – develop & build relationships both internal & external.
- Planning & organising – the logistic industry is all about organisation and forward planning.

Additional education undertaken during my career includes, Diploma of Logistics Management, Diploma of Business Management and Certificate IV in Transport and Distribution (Warehousing & Storage). This combined with experience in the various operating systems and associated software applications in an industry environment has equipped me with valuable competencies to meet your needs.

I am confident that my Industry skills, education together with my professional attitude, methodical approach and practical real-world experience will enable me to perform well above expectations and am available for an interview at a convenient time. I can be contacted on 0432 596 961 or a/h 03 9449 0234.

I look forward to meeting with you to discuss this opportunity further.

Yours sincerely

Andrew Portou
